

"The Best Partner for Glocalization"

"Farewell to 2008 and welcome to 2009."

We are saying goodbye to an eventful 2008 and welcome to a new year, 2009. The year 2008 was a meaningful one for our office in many ways. After being established in 1999, our official name was changed this year to KLAFIR, America.

Befitting this, we have strengthened international solidarity with local government organizations throughout America. We also expanded our work area from North America to Central America. In 2008, our office provided visa exchange and information support for 340 cases; discussed 123 cases of best practices; and provided support for delegation visits to America for 1,200 Korean civil servants. Doubling that of 2007, it was a year of rediscovering its role and position for KLAFIR, America.

We anticipate various environment changes in 2009. Some of these include the visa exchange between Korea and the United States; the expectation of an FTA conclusion; and efforts to develop the American market due to the economic recession. Following such changes, it is projected that there will be a surge in demand for international exchange between governments of Korea and America. In accordance to this, KLAFIR, America plans to concentrate on providing support for the revitalization of international exchange between governments of Korea and America; supporting delegation visits to America for civil servants and supplying diverse cases of best practices and local information. In particular, we will continue on spreading Korea's excellent local government system as well as promoting its culture, tourism, student exchange, and the quality of their civil servants training programs. To this end, we will further strengthen relations with our cooperative partners.

My hope is that we will be able to step out from under the shade of unprecedented economic recession and that this year will become a new springboard and an opportunity to develop not only for our office but all local governments.

Sincerely,

Director of KLAFIR, America
Dong Hoon Park
